UNINSTRUCTED DELEGATES. The Leading Democratic Paper of New England Opposes Instruc-

There appears to be quite a move-ment in New Orleans in support of Gen. Hancock for the Democratic nom-ination. This of itself is merely the ex-ercise of the right of every Democrat candidates, and so far as he properly may, to seek to bring others to a like mind respecting his favorite. It is conjectured, however, that some of General Hancock's friends in Louisiana may be disposed, against the past usage and obvious present policy of the Dem-ocratic party, to seek the instruction of the delegation from that State to vote in the national convention for some particular candidate. Gen, Hancock is a gallant soldier, and has well earned the gratitude of the people of Louisiana by performing his duty when he was placed in command over them. It was a time of much abuse of power, when not only military, but civil rulers forgot that one grievance set forth in the Declaration of Independence was that George III. "affected to render the mil-itary inde; endent of and superior to the civil power." The recent decisions of the Supreme Court of the United States have plainly marked the path of centralization, along which we are strid-ing, and the radical alteration of our form of government, which is rendered certain, unless there be a change in the tiny. We need not step out of our way to find vital issues upon which to stake the bat le of 1880, issues which involve the existence of constitutional government, without regard to the question whether the strong man of to-day or some other day in the near future be the immediate instrument or its virtual

All Democrats agree upon the neces sity for success. To that end, all our party councils should tend. It may be fatal to all our prospects, if we permit personal preferences to over-ride the general judgment and allow the action of the National Convention to be forestalled by any unreasonable or unreas-ing persistence on the part of any State or urging its favorite, or tying the hands of its delegates. The Democratic party is now, as it has been in the past, rich in eminent men, who are entitled to, and who enjoy the confidence of the country, and any one of whom the par-ty will delight to honor. It will be for the Convention to consider fairly and freely the claims of all these. Who of them is the strongest and most availa-ble candidate, is a question addressed entirely to that body, and upon its members will devolve a peculiar responsibility. In the coming campaign we shall have to resist the fallacy of the "strong man" cry-now for the first time in our history, adopted as a party watchword. Under whose leadership can this best be done? What candidate in such a conflict, best represents the thought and wishes of the party, and can win the support of those, who, while not enrolled in its ranks, may be while not enrolled in its ranks, may be led to upport its nominees? Will the interests of the party be best promoted by the selection of a candidate from civil, or from military life, in a contest cívil, or from military life, in a contest promising to turn upon the question whether the people will take for their next President a man stronger than the laws, or a man obedient to them? These and like questions will require the exercise of the best judgment of the delegates from the several States after delegates from the several States after they had an opportunity for conference and careful consideration.

It is not to the advocacy of the nomination of Hancock or of any true Democrat, that we take exception. It is only by such advocacy that the real merits of leading candidates are brought under discussion. But we protest against the undemocratic system of sending instructed delegates to a convention, the true theory of which is, that it is a meeting of Democrats from vention, the true theory of which is, that it is a meeting of Democrats from all States and sections, to deliberate as to the men best fitted to achieve success, and most truly represent the party creed. We have had too much of putting on the cast-off garments of the Republican party, to adopt now the Cameron-Conkling device of sending delegates, charged with the meagre duty of casting pre pledged votes. The custom of Louisiana and of her sister Southern States has been much bearer the true conception of a nominating Southern States has been much bearer the true conception of a nominating convention—to send a delegation of tried and trusted men to represent the State, who, in conference with the other delegates, select those candidates whose nomination seems most judicious. We trust the Democrats of Louisians and of all the States will adhere to this custom. It is the manifest duty and policy of our party, at the present time, not to commit itself for or against any individual but to leave the selection to the deliberate judgment of the delegates when as embled in a free convention. Such a convention will be in marked and advantageous contrast with the Republican Convention, to which, from present appearances the delegates will go in chain gangs, duly labelled with the name of the owner and contractor who has undertaken to deliver them. Such delegations must produce a convention whose action will create discord in the party, or result in a weak nomination. Let the Democratic watchword be unpledged delegations, friendly consultations, and united support of the best and strongest candidate who can be selected, by able, unpledged representatives of the party in convention assembled. Should this result in the selection of General Hancock, none will labor more cordially or with greater seal for his success than the Post.

the doctor to Coroner Knox, who took charge of the case.

Dr. Miller was hastily called on last Friday, to No. 234 West Eleventh street, by a man who said his name was Newhall, where he found Mrs. Deutch in a highly nervous condition, and on the point of a relapse to her old weakness. By dint of much soothing and powerful tonics he tided her over the crisis, and gave strict orders that she must under no circumstances obshe must under no circumstances ob-tain any stimulant. It immediately appeared that the name of Newhall was a false one, and that the patient's professed "friend" was in reality her husband, and that leutch was his name. Mrs. Deutch's maiden name was Van Buren, and she was a direct descendant of the historical Van Buren family. Her father was the once well-known Dr. Peter Van Buren, of this city.

BIG OVERFLOW.

CHANGES IN THE BANKS AND BED OF THE STREAM CAUSED BY MIGH WATER.

Island No. 10" of the War Period Washed Away-Strange Scone

During an Overflow. Correspondence of the Detroit Free Press. Correspondence of the Detroit Free Press.

SUNFLOWER, Miss.—The all-absorbing topic with us just now is the stage of the river, which has been quite high for three weeks. It may be of interest to those who live on the banks of the steady-going Detroit River, with its sparkling water, as well as to your other numerous readers throughout the North, to hear something of the fickle character of the "father of waters" on his way through the alluvial region of the the gulf.

Here we have Here we have

A CHANGE FROM HIGH TO LOW Water equal to thirty-five feet; a river whose immediate banks are from one to thirteen feet higher than the land a mile back; whose bed is continually shifting; whose banks are caving of rapidly in one place and growing with equal rapidity in another; a river which carries to the gulf annually a quantity of solid matter which would make a block a mile square and 240 feet deep, besides an enormous amount of logs, trees and drift of various kinds.

CHANGE IN BANK AND BED.

Where ten years ago steamboats plowed the waters, now one finds land covered with a dense growth of trees; and a peculiar feature of newly-made land is that it is higher than much of the surrounding land. Where once stood fine plantations, the water is now perhaps sixty feet deep. The wreck of a steamboat or barge, or even a large snag, may cause the formation of an island which in five years time will be covered with cottonwood trees six inches or more in diameter, and every vestige of the same island may be washed away in a few months. ISLANDS APPEARING AND DISAPPEAR-

Some years ago some one took pains to number the islands from Cairo to New Orleans. Some of them are now ten miles or more from the channel, while others have been washed away entirely, as, for instance, the famous fortified "Island No. 10," which played an important part during the war. Scores of new islands have appeared and disappeared since this numbering and many of them still remain.

THE LEVERS AND OVERFLOWS.

The river overflows its banks, and with the exception of small patches here and there, the land outside of the leves is covered with water several feet deep and the river spreads to an expanse of many miles where not confined by levess. The latter are are in such bad order that in many places there are large gaps through which the water rushes with great force, thus flooding many plantations with back water. But we have become accustomed to this sort of thing, as it is not an uncom-The river overflows its banks, and this sort of thing, as it is not an uncommon occurrence; and each recurrence of the flood finds us no better prepared to meet it. One often sees a house en tirely surrounded by water, a skiff tied at the doorsteps, a board across the door at the doorsteps, a board across the door which serves the double purpose of keeping the children from falling overboard and keeping out the swells caused by passing steamboats. The animals do not have the care Noah bestowed on them. The chickens take to the housetops and the cattle pick a scanty living from the twigs and cane within reach from the levees. Platforms are sometimes built upon which forms are sometimes built upon which the hogs are placed and platforms made of logs with earth thrown over them afford a place upon which cattle can rest at night.

HOW THE ANIMALS SWIM.

Here seems to be an illustration of the doctrine of the "survival of the fittest."

It is a clear case of "sink or swim."
Rabbits have no fear of the water but when alarmed rush into it and swim with the celerity of the muskrat You have heard that hegs will cut their own throats while swimming. Don't you believe it, for our hogs are expert swimbelieve it, for our hogs are expert swimmers from dire necessity. Deer leave the flooded cane brakes and come out on the levees where they can lie down, but they plunge into the water again at the slightest alarm.

THE FLOOD AND THE CROPS.

Negro tenants find it hard to get a living at such times. They are in the habit of mortgaging their cotton crop before it is planted, for bacon and meal. But they can get no advances as long as the prospect for making a crop is at all doubtful. A fair srop can be made if the water goes down so as to admit of planting by the middle of May. Nometimes a very high water occurs in the summer, as in 1875, when roasting ears were gathered from a dug-out, the water being two feet deep over the fields.

CARE OF THE LEVEES.

After a long period of high water the levees become saturated, and what at first is but a little trickling steam quickly becomes a rushing torrent in spite of all efforts to stop it. These breaks often do an immanse amount of dame often do an immense amount of damage.

Where the levees are continuous it is of course to the interest of everyone to keep them from breaking, and when a break occurs every available man is put to work to stop it.

If a levee breaks on one side of the river it relieves the pressure on the other side; hence it sometimes happens that unscrupulous men, such as are imbued with the look-out for-numberone principle, will, when threatened with a break, alip across the river and make a break in the levee opposite. They avert the danger which threatens them, but ruin some neighbor in doing so. Happily such cases are rare.

REPLENISHMENT OF THE SOIL.

We have in spite of this great draw-

We have in spite of this great draw-back of overflows many advantages. Our soil is inexhaustible, and being an alluvial deposit, is very rich. Adjacent to the river it is twenty feet deep. From one to two bales of cotton can be raised per acre. Farm hands get from ten to fifteen dollars per month and

The dark side of the picture does not appear to them at all. They don't realize that it requires time as well as money to bring the Western wilds under a state of cultivation which will give them even food enough to est, to say nothing about elothing to keep them warm.

A SUMMARY OF THE EVIDENCE BY CAROSER RICHARDSON

Franklin Thompson was called to the chair and Mr. Richard Canady was appointed Secretary. The Chairman endorsed the enterprise. He showed that for the want of suitable transportation it costs one-half of the value of the exports of Onslow to put them in market, James G. Scott, Esq., then followed in an eloquent appeal in behalf of the road. He then introduced Dr. B. B. Satchwell, of Pender, who was the principal speaker on the occasion. He set forth in a plain, practical manner, the advantage of the road, the ways and means by which it is proposed to be built, its prospects, and the hopes of its friends. The amount necessary for organizing the company, under the charter, had been nearly raised by subscription. Build this road, said he, to New River, secure an appropriation from Congress, as could be done, for improving its naylgation, and Orslow would leap forth with renewed prosperity and enhanced value of her real estate, and would have an easy and cheap ingress and egress to the markets of her own choice. The relief affords by the recent expression of the Legislature would be terenable our people to engage in these local measures of development and progress. In this relation he endorsed the action of the General Assembly in selling the Western N. C. Road, and compilmented Governos Jarvis for his patriotic manliness and thorough uprightness of purpose for what he and other State officers had done under the injustice and wrong heaped upon him and them in the and thorough uprigitness of purpose for what he and other State officers had done under the injustice and wrong heaped upon him and them in the course of the recent excitement upon this grave question of State pelicy. Time and a better understanding among the masses would dissipate the disaffection of his own and other eastern counties upon this subject. While we ought to desire the good opinion of our fellow-citizens, we should have courage enough not to be turned from the path of duty and right by any fear of popular disapprobation. He spoke of the strong claims for support of the enterprising city of Wilmington. As her friend he could but think that if she would avail herself of passing opportunities for improving her material condition, her citizens should attach more importance to these home measures and local schemes of internal improvements that are being inaugurated and carried forward in these contiguous and neighboring counties.

Correspondence of the News.

RALEIGH, April, 9th, 1880.—So much has been said, and the subject has had so wide spread discussion, that I have deemed it necessary to give, over my own signature, a full account of the matters pertaining to the late inquisi tion concerning the whipping and death of Andrew Fries a former conviet in the Penitentiary, as developed by the proceedings instituted in the case. On Monday the 29th day of March, 1880, Mr. Stewart Ellison, a representative of the county of Wake, in the present General Assemby, called upon me and stated that he had reason to believe that a convict in the State Penitentiary, had come to his death from reason of bad treatment at the hands of the authorities having him in charge. Although the law governing the coroner in the premises allowed me te act, vet, in order to place the question of jurisdiction beyond doubt, I required Mr. Ellison to go before a Justice of the Peace and make affidavit. He did so, and filed his testimony before me. After this, in order to place myself in a true position, I went to Governor Jartrue position, I went to Governor Jarvis and laid the matter before him in true position, I went to Governor Jarvis and laid the matter before him in all its aspects. The Governor, not only agreed with me, that an investigation was necessary, but in a letter addressed to E. R. Stamps, Esq., chairman of the Board of Directors of the Peniteutiary, directed that full privileges should be accorded me in the natter. Being thus armed, I proceeded to investigate the the matter according to law. On Wednesday, March 31st. I held a primary investigation at the office of Mess. Gray & Stamps in Raleigh. At that investigation I concluded that the examination of Dr. McGee was of such a character as to justify one in holding a regular inquest over the body of the deceased. On Thursday the first inst., I summoned a regular jury of inquest, and on 12 o'clock noon of the day, I proceeded to go into a regular inquisition concerning the manner and cause of the death of Andrew Fries, as required by law After a full investigation of all the circumstances of the case, attended by all the witnesses to be produced, the jury found a verdict, the substance of which has already been given to the public mind, is in substance, as follows: That the man An irew Fries came to his death from gangrene; caused from a combination of circumstances, among them, his treatment while in prison in the town of Winston prior to his being brought to the State penitentiary and his being compelled to work on the the University Road while in a depleted state, and that said death was hastened by whipping, inflicted at the hands of Charles H. Motz, instigated by John A. Holt,

It may be proper to state in this connection that three of the persons addednates of the death of the signatures.

It may be proper to state in this con-nection that three of the persons added-notes to their signatures; two of them believe that Andrew Fries would have died of gangrene had he not been sent to the University Road, or the other to the effect that he did not belive the Di-rectors of the Penitentiary would have or did countenance any cruelty to the convicts under their charge. This verdict will be duly filed by me, with the Superior Court Clerk of Wake,

After the rendition of the verdict, as above stated I was requested by a telegram, from Solicitor Strudwick to bring the evidence before him. I say requested because I am not required, as I understand the law, to make my return other than to the Clerk of the Superior Court of Wake county. Feeling, however, that this was a matter of importance to the people at large, I carried the evidence to Hillsboro and presented it to Solicitor Strudwick.

That officer reveiwed the matter in all its details are itsed did. its details as also did Judge Seymour and its decision is before the public.

After Sixteen Months, Produces Hydrophobia in a Boy.

About sixteeu years ago, Hugh Irvin, a lad about 11 years of age, residing at 16 Marseilles place, was bitten by a Spitzer dog. As the wound soon healed, the circumstances was nearly forgotten. About two weeks ago little Hugh was plaving on a lot near his home when he accidentally fell, injuring his spine. He was carried home in an insensible condition, and on being brought to consciousness immediately went into a spasm which continued at intervals up to Saturday morning last. On Sunday he continued to grow worse, his spasms, heing so violent as to require not only all his father's strength, but the assistance of a neighbor to hold him. No froth has come from the boy's mouth, but during these attacks his teeth clash together, while barking sounds are uttered in close imitation of the barking of a dog. The sight of water throws him into convulsions, though he can take other drinks without being unduly affected. unduly affected.

14-15-19 Tarboro Southerner.

Returning from Goldsboro on Mon-day we noticed a red-faced, curly-baired, foreign-looking man on the seat in front of as. His head was leant on the back of the seat in his front. An overcost thrown across the back of the overcoat thrown across the back of the seat in front obscured a side view. What could be be doing?

His intense absorption rendered him oblivious to everything. For an hour he did not change his position. A stranger passing for water halted slightly, peeped over, smiled and passed on. Our curiosity, now greatly excited, must be relieved.

We, too, passed for water.

He was a victim.

As we craned our neck ever, we descried one hand holding, as near under ham as possible, a puzzle. The fingers of the left hand defily manipulated the blocks. We smiled audibly and coughed. He heeded not. Everybody in the car passed, paused and peeped over and laughed. He was oblivious to everything. No amount of noise stirred him.

When we arrived at Rocky Mount he hadn't yet moved. Looked as if he was glued down.

And that's the way it serves 'em.

A NIMILANT PRINCE.

ment-A Cell Where a Princess Portshed,

Paris Correspondence London Telegraph.

A short account of the calebrated casemates of the Fortress of St. Peter and St. Paul, in which the Nihilists are confined immediately after their arrest. will, I doubt not, be perused with interest by your readers. The writer, a St. Peteraburg correspondent, obtained access to the essemates by a special order from one of the Grand Dukes. The casemates are holiowed out under the Neva, and directly under the ramparts. Their only window, a little square hole projected by a thick barred grating, rises but a few inches above the level of the river. At stated distances there are iron doers opening into halls filled with sentiuely, who with loaded rifle and fixed bayonet, keep watch and ward over the unhappy tenants of the cells which open upon them. As for the tiny prisons, they are very narrow quarters, square, with stone walls and floors, and fearfully damp, the water constantly dropping about in all directions. A chair, a table, add a pallet of white wood form the only furniture. One of the pallets was found to be covered with a bed of straw horrily foul, but even this, poor luxury as it was, must be considered an exception. The visitor was allowed entrance to a few of the cells. Their tenants were pale; they rose as he entered, according to order but regarded him with fixed look of despair. The writer was shown the famous cell in which was incarcerated the Princess Tarskanova, daughter of the Empress Elizabeth, who fell a victim to her rival, the Empress Cathrine II. grandmother of the present Czar. This unhappy woman perished in the cell under the most dramatic circumstances. The Neva, swellen by the melted snow, suddenly rose and the rushing torrent, dashing with overwhelming strength against the tiny window, broke in and filled the cell with water. The Princess was drowned. The cells of the great State criminals are lined with mattresses, and rings of iron are placed in the walls, to which many of them are bound when they are not strait waistcoated. The guide informed t Paris Correspondence London Telegraph when they are not strait waistcoated. The guide informed the writer, among other things, that these unhappy men were asked every quarter of an hour if they were present. Whenever they failed to reply, they were barbarously punished. He also states that in the wall of the Emperor's room is an invisible door, communicating with a little passage, yery narrow, and leading to a subterranean gallery, hollowed out under the Neva. The gallery leads to the fortress, and, in case of a revolution, or of imminent peril, the Czar could disappear in a few seconds from the Winter Palace, and a few minutes after find nimself in perfect safety in the Fortress of St. Peter and St. Paul, the guns of which, in a short time, could reduce st. Petersburg to ruins. The palace of the Czar Paul I., which is now the Engineer's School, was similarly provided; but when the assassins entered his room he had not time to flee and was struck down at the very moment when he was about to disappear behind the secret door, which was already open.

BENJAMIN DISRABELI.

A Sketch of the Early Life of the Brit toh Premier.

The British Premier is a figure if no a po ver. He has filled a large space in the political landscape of Great Britain for a quarter of a century, and has been a po ver. He has filled a large space in the political landscape of Great Britain for a quarter of a century, and has been the most conspicuous person in the foregrounds of affairs since 1874. The son of Isaac Disraeli, a popular Jewish writer, who was the son of Benjamin Disraeli, a successful and energetic Jewish merchant, he began his career under a cloud of prejudice which his early baptism did not remove. In fact, his renunciation of the faith of his ancestors cost him the regard of the Jews without gaining the hearty confidence of Christians. His father was thoroughly saturated with the eighteenth century akepticism, and his more brilliant son seems te have been born without the least bias toward religion of any sort, or faith in any spiritual substance or reality behind the shows or shadows of the visible universe. He began life with a splendid outfit of talents, though without the advantage of a university training. Handsome, attactive, precocions, fond of spigram and paradox, capable of speaking jeud'esprit, he gained attention and admiration. The gained attention and admiration, the gained attention and admiration. His early writings increased interest in him though they were not sufficiently important to make him famous. In 1832, when twenty-eight years old, he made his first venture in politics. It was on the 18th of June that he made his entry into the little town of High Wyoombe, to whose electors he offered himself as a candidate for Parliament. True te his principle of attracting attention by his appearance, he drove, elegantly dressed, in an open carriage drawn by four horses, accompanied by a band of music and a troop of admirers with banners. He bowed to the spectatore who thronged the windows to behold the spectacle, and, when he reached the tavern, sprung from the carriage to the porch and made an animated speech of an hour, lashing the Whigs with biting sarcasm because their famous reform bill did not go far enough. In short, he made his debut on the political stage as a full-blown vehemen again defeated. The tide was against him. He had the misfortune of occupyhim. He had the misfortune of occupying an equivocal position, a sort of Tory-Radical, a contradictory, if not impossible, character. He wrote pamphlets, and challenged O'Connell to fight a duel, which the great Irish orator refused to do, whereupon Disraeli assailment in the Times. Finally, in 1837, he was chosen to Parliament for Maidstone with Mr. Windham Lewis, who had oald £600 toward defraying the cost of Disraeli's last campaign. There is something singular in the fact that Queen Victoria enterted upon her reign at the same time. And it was on the evening of December 7 that he made his famous maiden speech, in which he evening of December 7 that he made his famous maiden apeech, in which he was coughed and laughed down amid the derisive jeers of the ilouse, and as he took his seat uttered the memorable words in an almost terrific voice: "I am not at all surprised air, at the recording words in an almost terrific voice: "I am not at all surprised, sir, at the reception I have met with. I have begun several times many things—and have often succeeded at last. Ay, Sir, I will sit down now, but the time will come when you will hear me." How the prediction has been fulfilled is a matter of history. From that day forward Disraeli has been a name in English relitive and literature. politics and literature.

SENATE.

THE 44TH COSCRESO. Kollege-Spotterd case Still Taple. - Hasing of Cadet Wi taker at West Point.

WASHINGTON, D. C., April 8th .- On motion of Senator Cameron, of Pennsylvanis, it was resolved that when the Senate adjourned to-day that it be to meet on Monday next. Senator Logan submitted a resolution directing the Secretory of War to furnish the Senate with any facts that may be in his possession in reference to the recent mutilation of one of the cadets at West Point. Senators Eason and Maxey thought the resolution a premature official investigation of an outrage which was known to be in progress, and that the Senate would be able to get the official report when it should be made. In accordance with suggestions by Senators Conkiln and Howard, Logan effered a resolutions of an outrage which was the President of the United States to transmit such information in regard to the affair as in his judgement would not be incompatible with public interest. The Democratic Senators this morning held another caucus meeting on order of the business caucus. After hours of discussion they adjourned until to-morrow without taking any action, but general sentiment to-day, as in yesterday's meeting, was evidently in favor of giving the precedence to the Geneva award bill, and such appropriations to the bill as may be ready for action after it shall have been disposed of, thus leaving the Spofford-Kellogg case to take its chances of obtaining consideration in the Senste this session, or to go over to the next session, just as the condition of public business may hereafter seem to render it advisable. Jones, of La., Hill, of Ga., Saulsbury. Vance and Vest, took the ground to-day that the Spofford-Kellogg case could not properly be postponed. They were opposed to any evasion of the issue, and wanted the Democratic party to have and show courage of its convictions. They insisted that it was plain that Kellogg had no right to a seat, and the majority should not hesitate to seat Judge Spofford.

Senator Garland spoke in favor of going on with the more important public business, that the Kellogg case was not pressing matter, and it should await the action upon pend sylvanis, it was resolved that when the

He added that he would not answer for Louisiana, the remaining Democratic State any longer if the Democrata of the Senate passed this matter over and left Kellogg in his seat, and while Senators were considering the possibility of losing votes by taking up this case. They had better look at the other side of the question, and consider the imminent danger of losing a state if they refused to do Louisiana Democratic justice: Senators Hill, Saulsbury and Vance of the election committee held that investigation of this case was ordered with the understanding that it should be disposed of as soon as all the facts could be learned, and they therefore thought it ed of as soon as all the facts could be learned, and they therefore thought it would not be treating the committee rightly to postpone the matter. They also argued that the investigation of the matter having been entrusted to command the labor, having been faithfully performed. The majority of the Senate ought to stand by the Committee's conclusions. Senator Bayard and some others therefore remarked that their understanding was that the Committee were to inquire whether or not the case was readjusted and that the question whether Mr. Kellogg's title was open to dispute was thereafter to be determined by the Senate at us convenience and upon its own judgement, although as above stated a majority of those present at the caucus to-day were evidently in favor of giving other business precedence over this case. Minority who insist upofi its prompt consideration are so urgent that it is still very eration are so urgent that it is still very possible they may carry their point.

Senators Voorhees and Bruce supported the resolution, and commented in severe terms upon the brutal and in severe terms upon the brutal and inhuman treatment to which cadets are often subjected to in West Point academy. Maxey and Burnsides defended the institution against the charges made by the first-named Senators, and thought it best to await the result of official investigation now being made, of an alleged outrage upon Whittaker before taking any such action as the resolution proposed. After some further remarks by Hoar and others, the resolution went over without action.

lution proposed. After some further remarks by Hoar and others, the resolution went over without action.

Senator Butler, of South Carolina, presented a memorial of the Charleston Chamber of Commerce, endorsing the recommendation of the New York Chamber of Cemmerce that consular raports be published weekly and monthly, for distribution among leading commercial bodies of the United States. Referred.

At the expiration of the morning hour the Senate resumed the consideration of the Ute Indian agreement bill. Senator Vest supported the bill as a practical step in the right direction. Senator Morgan repeated in substance his former argument against it. 3 peeches were also made by Teller, Piumb and others. The amendment of Senator Dawes, authorizing the President to use $10,000 of the amount appropriated in the bill for the education of Indian youths was adopted, as was also the amendment proposed by Morgan that the act should not be construed so as to compel any Ute Indian to remove from lands claimed by him in severalty. After some further discussion it was agreed that the bill should go over for to-day, and be finally voted on before the adjournment Monday. The Senate then went into the executive session, and when done, were reopened adjourned until Monday.

Washington, D. C., April 9.—Fifty or seventy-five bills were reported adversely from the Committe on war claims and were laid on the table. Newberry of Michigan, introduced a bill prohibiting the transportation of goods in bond or cuty paid or products of the manufacturers of the United States from or at any port therein to another through any foreign countries bordering on the Gulf of Mexico or Carribbean Sea, except as the same is permitted by the Treaties of the United States with such foreign countries. The House then went into a Committee of the Whole on the private Calendar, The Pending bill was that for the relief of Madison Day, of Louisiana, on account of the property bought by him from the United States with a defective title after a debate of two and a haif hours, a vote was taken which resulted 12 to 22, not a quorum. The Committee then rose, and Blount of Georg a then introduced a bill for the erection of a public bailding at Macon, Ga. Referred. Adjoursed.

Why can't Congressmen be more dignified than to hurl such epithets as the "lie" at each other? The House has been the scene of some of this kind oftalk during this week. Cursing at all times is exceedingly ungentlemanly, and especially is it reprehensible in those we select to make our laws. A man who would act in this manner is unfit to be a member of our National Congress.

At the ninth annual meeting of the Fishcul ural Association held in New York some days since, Robt. B. Rossvelt, President of the Association, read a paper on the hybridization of fishes, and giving some of the results of crossbreeding of fish of the same class. It is almost impossible to say at what point science will stop, when we pause to contemplate what results man has already accomplished.

He says Dr. Worth's able letter on the sale of the W. N. C. R. R. and Col. Clark the inceptor of the famous "Mud Cut Boom," are deserving of and should recieve this recognition from the people of North Carolina.

WE clip the following from a published letter from the pen of Mr. J. D. King of Montgomery, Ala. He says of the South:

"Fifteen years have elapsed since the war between the States, and yet the war is still waged with more bitterness than during '61 and '65. An honest opinion cannot be expressed but we are accused of secession proclivities, and a desire to control the Government of the United States. States. If we are silent, we are accused of indifference to the well being of the country at large."

WE publish on our first page in today's News a communication from Col. Richardson, the Coroner for Wake county. Col. Richardson held the late Jury of Inquest over the dead body of Andrew Fries the colored convict who was said to have been whipped to death by John A. Holt and Charles H. Motz. The communication reflects on no one. and is only a plain statement of the real facts in the case. We hope our readers will give this letter a careful perusal. Col. Richardson in writing this communication says his intention is to place himself right before the public, that he showed no partizan feeling during the investigation nor does he feel any now.

We are continually hearing of some new mine being discovered within our State. The latest discovery is a mine of white clay near Young's X Roads in Granville county. This clay is said to be the kind that the porcelain manufacturers use. There are said to be at a good many houses in the neighborhood plastered with this clay. Some of these houses have been plastered for forty years and the walls still look perfectly white. Here is another chance for capital. There is plenty idle labor in that county which can be had cheap. When we think of the many advantages possessed by North Carolina for toreign capitalists, we can but feel proud of our state. The time will come when North Carolina will rank first among the mining states of the Union

THIS year will be emphatically speak ing a political one. Elections both State. Congressional and Presidential will be held all over these United States Political feeling will doubtless run high. Animosities will crop up, and bitter thoughts almost indelible in their nature indulged in: but there is one thing not to be forgotton, and that is our farming interest. Everything depends upon the success of this interest. 'Tis the real basis of trade in any country. Let a had crop be raised and the effects will permeate every industry. What we are striking at, is that farmers should not neglect their all importan crops on account of politics. Our advice is, plant plenty corn, raise your own meat, and always vote for the Democratic nominee, and you will be independent and happy.

We are glad to see a disposition all over the country to send uninstructed delegates to the National Democratic Convention. No man should go there pledged to vote for any particular indi vidual. How can a State convention that instructs its delegates possibly know what may arise in the National Convention to make it absolutely necesary for the delegates to disobey intructions?

The Philadelphia Times, one of the ablest papers in the country says the Democrats of Pensylvania are about ecoming united. It says:

becoming united. It says:

When it is considered that an honestly and ably organized Democratic party is of the first importance to the people of every political faith in Philadelphia as a restraint upon a reckless majority, and that the unity or discord of the party here may elect or defeat a Democratic President, United State Senator, Congress or State ticket, in the possible political disintegrations of 1880, the necessity for harmonious action at Harrisburg will be profoundly appreciated by all the leaders.

THE vote in Indiana on the adoption of the constitutional amendments submitted to the people of that State by the Legislature of the same on Monday last resulted in the adoption of every amendment by an overwhelming majority. The N, Y. Herald says:

"Contrary to the rule which obtains in nearly all the other States, Indiana has had no residence qualification for voters, but under the smended constitution this safeguard will be provided." The second amendment allows negroes to vote. The third changes the day of election from October to November. The fourth strikes out the word white' from the constitution. The fifth relates to payment of county officers. The sixth relates to the establishment of new courts, and the Seventh to taxes etc. The vote was non-political.

Somebody's child.

Somebody's child is dying—dying with the flesh of hope on his young face and an indescribable yearning to live and take an honored place in the world beside the companions of his youth. And somebody's mother is thinking of the time when that dear face will be hidden where no ray of hope can brighten it—when her heart and home will be left desolate—because there was no cure for consumption. there was no cure for consumption. Reader, if the child be your neighbor's take this comforting word to the mother's heart before it is too late Tell her that consumption is curable, that men that consumption is curable, that men are living to-day, aged, robust men, whom the physicians pronounced incurable at the age of twenty-five, because one lung had been almost destroyed by the disease. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is a most efficient alterative for separating the scrofulous matter from the blood and lungs, and imparting strength to the system. It has cured hundreds of consumptives.

REMEDISE

Have Achieved she most noted success of any Medicines of Modern Timtes.

Messrs. Weeks & Potter have never doubted the specific properties of Outleura, Cutteura Resolvent and Outleura Soap, for the speedy, permanent, and economical cure of Humors of the Bl ed, Skin and Scalp. They are however, astonished at their universal success; for it was to be expected that in the hands of some they would fail solely from spasmood; or ignoyould fall solely from spasmoule or igno rant use of them. They are enabled to say without fear of contradiction that no remedles ever achieved in the short space of one year the number of won'erful e res performed by the CUTICURA REMEDIES.

SALT RAHUM, Covering the Body for ten Years, Permanently Cured.

LAW OFFICE OF CHAS. HOUGHT N, 17 Congress Street, Roston, Feb 2s, 1878. 17 Congress Street, Roston, Feb 25, 1878.

Messrs. Weeks & Potter: Gentlemen,—I feel it a duty to inform you, and through you all who are interested to know the fact, that a most disagre able and obstina e case Sait Rheum or Eczema, which has been under my personal observation from its first appearance to the present time,—about ten (12) cars,—covering the greater portion of the patient's body a d limos with its peculiar irritating and itching scab, and to which all the known methods of treating—uen messase had been applied without benefit, has completely disappeared, icaving a clean and mealthy skin, under a few days of profuse application of Cuticus—A.

I can and do heartily advise all similarly afflicted to try the remedy which has been so effectual in this case.

Very truly yours,

CHAS. HOUGHTON.

Liver Complaint. And Dyspepsia Treated by the Resolvent, Gains 5 1-2 pounds on

GENTLEMEN,-I have had Liver Complaint and Dyspepsia, with running sores on the side of my neck, for ten years. Dectors did no good. I have been speading tor eight years and it did me no good. Everything I ate distressed me. I got reduced from 179 to 132 pounds. At last I tried the RESOLVENT and it helped me right off, and on one bettle I gained five and one-half pounds. It is doing the business, and I am going for it strong. it strong. Yours truly,
JOHN H. ROY
414 Wabash Ave., Chicago, 1:1., Nov. 15, 1878.

Note.—Cuticura is admirable assisted in cases of extreme physical weakness, or when the virus of Scrofula is known to lurk in the system, by the internal use of the Cuticura Resolvent, without doubt the most powerful blood purifier and liver stimulant in the world.

'uticura Soap is an elegant toilet and medicinal assistant to Cuticura in the treatment of all external ailments. For chapped hands, rough sain and tan, sunburn, and the lesser skin troubles, it is indispensable; as a soap for the toilet, the nursery nd bath it is the most elegant, refreshing, and healing before the public.

These great remedies succeed where all others heretofore in use fail because they possess new and eriginal properties never before successfully combined in medicine.

The Cuticura Remedies are prepared by Weeks & Potter, Chemists and Druggists, Boston, and sold by all Druggists Price of Cuticura, small boxes, 30 cents; large boxes, containing two and one-half times the quantity of small. $1. Wheat Mills and one Corn Mill, new and complete with a capacity for grinding 100 bushels of wheat and 100 bushels of corn a day, and can compete in quality of flour with any mills in the State. The mills have had a very large local patronage during the mast year. They are driven by a 60 House Power Stram Engine, improved, of the make of Taibott & Sona, Richmond
Attached to the engine is also a 60 Saw Cotton Gin and power press, at a safe distance (about 180 feet) in a different lot. The engine has a brick smoke-stack 60 feet high, making the danger from fire the least possible and the rate of insurance very low.

Rev. Sylvanus Cobb thus writes in the Boston Christian Freeman—We would by no means recommend any kind of medicine which we did not know to be good—particularly for infants. But of Mrs. Winslew's Soothknow to be good—particularly for infants. But of Mrs. Winslew's Soothing Syrup we can speak from knowledge; in our own family it has proved a blessing indeed, by giving an infant troubled with colic pains, quiet sleep, and the parents unbroken rest at night. Most parents can appreciate these blessings. Here is an article which works to perfection, and which is harmless; for the sleep which it affords the infant is perfectly natural, and the little cherub awakes as "bright as a button."

And during the process of teething, its value is incalculable. We have frequently heard mothers say that they would not be without it from the birth of the child till it had finished with the teething sleep, on any consideration whatever. Sold by all drugglats. 25 gents a bottle.

"LITTLE GIANT" HYDRAULIC COTTON PRESS

ITS GREAR POWER.-With it one man can prese af cotton of from 400 to 8 u pounds in from 8 to 8 minutes' time, and do it with ease.

Its QUICKNESS.—A man can press a bale in from 6 to 8 minutes' time, and in 1 minute after, the bale is out, the press is ready for the next.

Its Dulability.—There is neither grinding or rubbion in friction its of eration, as in the screw press; its not liabe to wear obt for want of oil or attention.

Its SIMPLICITY and the ease which it is operated by ordinary plantation hands; the ease and speed with with which it is put in position for receiving cotton for the next bale, after one has been turned out—the operation consisting in simply turning a cock, which allows the water to flow back to the tub or tank and the bottom or follower bleek to sink down to its position or receiving the cotton for packing the next bale. A haif barrel of water will pack many bales.

ECONOMY OF SPACE. It takes but a small amount of space for its working—8 x 10 feet being abundont room for it to work in Its Total Independence of the gin or in the open field.
